METAL TRADE IN S'HAI SLOW, DEALERS WAIT PACIFICATION

Interior Disturbances Continue To Affect Operations

MINTS INACTIVE

London Also Reports Slowing Up Of Market

BY DAVID ARAKIE

The pace of the steel and iron market in Shanghai in recent weeks has continued to be a very slow one. Operations, on the whole, are considerably below previous expectations and new orders booked are the subject of adverse comment on all sides. So far as the statistical position in Shanghai is concerned, supplies of most metals are considered very low, but the desire to replenish is still absent, principally the result of internal disturbances and the lack of confidence in the situation.

Most of the Chinese dealers are inclined to look on, and only a return to peaceful trade development in the interior can offset the inherent dullness of the market. The dealers are not disposed to take seriously the low ebb of the present stocks in Shanghai, Hankow and Tientsin. It would be interesting to watch how much improvement will come over things in general with the gradual settlement of the political troubles in various parts of the North. The swing of business in iron and steel back to normal will be slow, but many anticipate a marked recovery by autumn. This is generally the period of the year in metals not only in Shanghai and China but in Japan and other parts of the Far East.

COPPER SETBACK

The demand for copper from the mints in China has received a setback. Outside of the mint in Hupeh, whose requirements at present average some thousand tons of electrolytic per month, the other mints seem to be out of the market now. The Hunan and Honan mints are conspicuous by their absence. The Hunan government, as is well known, is laboring under financial difficulties, and, in addition to this, the political disturbances have served to restrict purchases. The Honan mint is reported to have ceased minting copper coins, while the Anking and Wuchow copper mints, as well, have suspended operations. The last two had closed down for sometime.

The Mukden mints are working, but their capacity is not known approximately. The same remark applies to the one in Canton. Supplies of the material in the hands of these mints are believed to be small.

The unfavorable rate of exchange is militating at present against a larger amount of copper being contracted by the working mints. The serious depreciation of copper coins and the fairly high price for electrolytic copper—today's rate being 15 cents f.o.b. New York—do not make for profitable business.

Cabled advices from New York speak of stagnant domestic and export demand. At the same time heavily increasing supplies of virgin and secondary metal are rapidly expanding unsold surplus stocks, and accelerating the decline in copper and other metals.

LONDON TRADE SLOW

The same note is struck in telegraphic reports from London where the trade is described as deplorably slow. In the opinion of many, until a genuine trade demand arises there is little prospect of material recovery in prices.

In the Shanghai market conditions are stagnant. As far as prices are concerned there are few changes of importance to chronicle. In certain products which could not be quoted before and on which shipments were indefinite quotations are now being made, although they are somewhat higher than before they ceased to be quoted. Where inquiries exist the offers are much below manufacturers' ideas.

Very little business in either Hongkong or Straits tin is transpiring at the present moment. The rate in London has been ranging between £195 to £200 per ton. Stocks in Shanghai of Hongkong tin are estimated at about 700 slabs and of Straits tin some 20 tons. The rate for Hongkong tin is Tls. 74 per picul.

Negotiations Held Up By Extravagant Demands Of 'Dyed-In-Wool' Bandits

Old Timers, Fearful Of Reprisals, Continue To Threaten Foreign Captives; Solomon Tells Of Cruelties To Chinese Prisoners

By (Lloyd "Larry" Lehrbas)
(China Press Staff Correspondent)

Tsaochuang, June 5.—Negotiations for the release of the twelve foreign captives still in captivity on Paotzuku have been proceeding very slow during the past two days because of dissension among the chiefs in the bandit camp.

Because of the dissension and the ticklish state the negotiations have now entered it has been necessary for General Chen, the chief government delegate, Commissioner for Foreign Affairs Wen of Nanking, and Mr. Roy Anderson to guard their every work and action against any possible slip that might disrupt the conference and bring their four weeks work to naught again.

Meanwhile the captives, their friends and relatives, and other members of the relief mission are fretting under the strain of the long drawn out negotiations—but it cannot be helped. The situation at Paotzuku is so fraught with danger at the present time that it might be dangerous to the lives of the captives, as well as to their freedom, if the bandits are pressed too hard.

This quarreling among the chiefs is confined to the two factions that have sprung up since the negotiations began. The 'old' chiefs, composed of the dyed-in-the-wool bandits and their cohorts who have no wish to enter the army, have placed every obstacle in the path of the peace makers by making extravagant demands (which they feel sure the government will not meet) and have threatened the foreign captives for the effect it will have.

TWO FACTIONS

The 'new' chiefs, composing those younger chiefs, mostly ex-officers in the army, who desire to again become military men, are led by Sun Mei-yao and Kuo Chi-tsai. At the present they are supported by the big chief of all the bandits, Sun Kwei-chu. Under the plans as now worked out the chiefs favoring enlistment in the army are enrolling their men while those who do not desire to become soldiers are being given the opportunity of 'beating it' with their loot. They must, however, leave their rifles behind.

In addition to solving a portion of the problem of what to do with the bandits the disarmament scheme being conducted within the bandit ranks is removing a number of malcontents who might cause trouble for the captives if they remained and pressed their extravagant demands.

More dissension was caused by the fact that Father Potte, a German Catholic medical missionary who entered the bandit camp several days ago to care for Commander Musso and other captives who might need medical attention, had remained in the camp so long. Lee Solomon has been ill—he writes that it is nothing serious—and Father Potte was attending him when two of the chiefs informed him he would have to leave camp. The question was finally compromised by Father Potte being sent to the chief's camp where he is still held.

The bandits, Solomon writes, continue to steal everything within sight and the captives have to watch their food supplies day and night. When the supplies which had been held up at the chief's camp for four days finally arrived at the captives' camp—after a protest to the chiefs from both the captives and the American Relief Mission—the supplies were opened by the bandits with the excuse that they were searching for munitions and a portion of the food appropriated for the bandits' own use. This action was taken despite the fact that Mr. Anderson, as a present to the chiefs, has been sending rice and flour into the bandits every day.

NEW DEPARTMENT

The captives have started a new supply department with Major Roland Pinger as quartermaster and supplies are issued to each of the groups as needed in an effort to stop the stealing of supplies.

In a letter to THE CHINA PRESS correspondent Lee Solomon recites three extremely brutal cases of cruelty that have come to his attention.

Last month when the soldiers were around Paotzuku, he was told, twenty of the prisoners were thrown over the brink of the mountain as a warning to the troops unless they kept their distance.

A few days later a mother and her child were bound together and thrown over the cliff because they merely begged for water.

Another case told Solomon was of four Chinese who had been captured and a ransom of $1,800 demanded. After a little bicker-

AMERICAN SCHOOL GRADUATES HAVE EXERCISES TODAY

Commencement Program To Be Held At Lyceum Theater

The commencement exercises of the Shanghai American School, which is graduating a class of thirteen students this year, will be held this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Lyceum Theater.

Interest centers this year in two university scholarships which are to be awarded by the Rotary Club and by American university women here.

The Rotary Bursary, amounting to $500 to be used as a scholarship in any American College or University will be presented to the young man, a member of the graduating class, who has done the most to serve his school during the four years of his High School course. The presentation will be made by Mr. W. J. Hawkings, President of the Shanghai Rotary Club.

A similar prize of $400 is awarded by the Shanghai Branch of the American Association of University Women to a young woman member of the graduating class, for all round proficiency in the school. The award will be made by Mrs. Carleton Lacy, President of the local branch of the Association.

Miss Frances Bowen, of Sungkiang, and Mr. Paul Harvey, of Shanghai, will have the distinction of being the class orators. Miss Bowen's oration is on the Eighteenth Amendment, while that of Mr. Harvey is on the Immigration Problem in America.

Dr. F. L. Hawks Pott, President of St. John's University will make the address to the class and the diplomas will be presented by Mr. J. Harold Dollar, Chairman of the Board of Managers of the School. The School Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Austin will furnish the music for the occasion.

The class consists of eight young men and five young women. This is the largest group which has ever been graduated from the American School.

The graduates are Frances Bowen, Elliott Fisher, Thomas Grafton, Paul Harvey, Cecile Keyserling, William Lockwood, Alexander Moffett, Vanda Newhard, Eugene Parker, Mary Rice, Henry Skinner, Roberta White and William Woods.

Last night the graduating class gave an excellent entertainment program at the Union Church Hall, the principal feature being the presentation of a two-act farce called "Mr. Bob." The comedy was produced under the direction of Mrs. Lucile Graham and Miss Louise Macklin and the cast was as follows:

Miss Rebecca Luke, a maiden lady ..... Vanda Newhard
Katherine Rogers, her niece ..... Frances Bowen
Philip Royson, a nephew ..... Yates McDaniel

Major-General Fowler Makes Report On S. V. C.

Following is the report made on the Shanghai Volunteer Corps by Major-General Sir John S. Fowler, Commanding the British Troops in China, who gave the corps its annual inspection recently:

REPORT OF 1923

1.—At the invitation of the Council I carried out the usual annual Inspection of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps between April 27 and May 3.

2.—Appendix "A" gives a list of the Units composing the Corps, and shows their strengths and the numbers on parade on various occasions. From this it will be seen that the total number of enrolled members was 1239. Of this number a proportion is always absent from Shanghai on leave or business. The numbers on parade at the various inspections were satisfactory in proportion to the numbers enrolled.

3.—I inspected the arms, equipment, and stores of the Corps, and found all in good order, as were also the rifle and revolver ranges.

4.—Ceremonial Inspection Parade.—This had to be postponed from a Saturday to a Wednesday because of bad weather, but in spite of this the number on parade was satisfactory, and the turnout and appearance of all units was good. They were very steady on parade, and handled their arms well. The march past of some units was particularly good.

UNIT INSPECTIONS

5.—Inspection of Units.—This was carried out in accordance with the program given in Appendix "B."

The following remarks are made:

Infantry.—The close order drill of the infantry was on the whole good. Many of the Officers were well up in drill and gave good words of command; others did not, and more uniformity in this respect should be aimed at. In some units the men showed an unequal standard of training, which is largely accounted for by the exigencies of their civil employment. The extended order movements of the sections of infantry were well under the control of their commanders, but did not always comply with the principles which should govern such movements. They were apt to be mechanical, and to mask each others' fire. The importance of supporting fire was not sufficiently understood.

Light Horse.—At the unit Inspection parade there was some unsteadiness in the sections, and too fast a pace in the movements. On the Ceremonial Inspection parade the Light Horse trotted and cantered past very well, showing that the necessary steadiness is attainable. The condition of ponies, and fitting of saddlery were very good indeed.

Machine Gun Units.—The Machine Gun Company, with its

SINGAPORE BASE CAUSES DISPUTE IN HOUSE OF LORDS

Marquess Of Salibury Defends Plan, Viscount Wimborne Attacks

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 5.—An attack on the new Singapore dockyard was made in the House of Lords today in the form of a question by Viscount Wimborne (Liberal) characterising the plan as "a dubious act of Imperialism" and an infringement of the spirit of the Washington Treaty.

Viscount Wimborne asked against what prospective enemy the new work was designed.

The Marquess of Salisbury, Lord President of the Council and Deputy Leader of the House of Lords, in reply, reiterated that a navy in the Far East was useless without a fortified base at Singapore. He scouted the suggestion that the project infringed the Washington decisions, and declared that the Government were not contemplating the present situation but a possible situation 10 or 20 years hence. He believed that the pessimistic prophesies that the enterprise would cost double what was expected would prove unfounded.

In the House of Commons today, Commander Evres-Monsell, the Parliamentary Secretary to the Admiralty, stated that because comparatively small sums were being spent on the Singapore project during the next two years it must not be assumed that the work would not be carried out in a businesslike manner when the orders had been placed.

(Reuter's Service)

Wellington, June 5.—The Prime Minister, Mr. Massey, in the course of a speech today, declared that New Zealand could not let Britain bear the whole expense of the Singapore dockyard. New Zealand and Australia would both have to take a share of the cost,

FIRE DESTROYS 150 BUILDINGS ON POOTUNG SIDE

Lives May Have Been Lost In Big Night Blaze

In the neighborhood of 150 shops and dwellings were destroyed and it is believed that there may have been some loss of life when fire swept through the congested Tung Ka Doo village, Pootung, Tuesday night and threatened foreign property as well, in particular the Hoong Shing Wharf.

The Shanghai Fire Brigade deserves the credit for checking and finally extinguishing the blaze, for the local fire department could do little, owing to lack of water. Chief Officer Pett and a detachment of firefighters from the Shanghai department crossed the river with the fire float shortly after 11 p.m. and remained at work, using tremendous lengths of hose, with good effect, until 3:30 a.m. The Customs float also assisted in the final operations.

It was stated that in one or two cases there were signs of attempt to loot, but these were frustrated. One man found in an upper room by an officer of the Brigade made a rapid exit through a window, dropping onto a roof that was on fire and then through to the ground, sustaining a singeing that probably took all thoughts of looting out of his mind.

LACK OF NEWS FROM TSAOCHUANG PUZZLING

Correspondents Silent But Private Message Received Here Says Negotiations Are Continuing Favorably; No News Apparently Is Good News, And No Apprehension Is Felt Here

No further press telegrams were received yesterday or last night from Tsaochuang concerning the bandit situation, although a private wire was received in Shanghai late in the afternoon saying that "negotiations were proceeding and that the outlook seemed favorable."

Some bewilderment is felt here over the continued silence of the correspondents at Tsaochuang. No word has been received from Mr. Lehrbas for two days, nor has the Reuter correspondent telegraphed anything direct in the same period.

No news certainly is good news in this instance, as there isn't the slightest doubt that there is resourcefulness enough among the correspondents there to get a message out if events justified it. The more probable theory is, that having wired a dozen times that "negotiations are proceeding favorably" they have simply decided to waste no more telegraph tolls on that information.

Tsaochwang, June 5. — The bandit leaders in a letter to the Chinese United Relief Association declare that they are willing to liberate the old and sick Chinese captives from the hills. Mr. Chen Tiao-yuan, the Government delegate, has consequently dispatched eight secretaries to Paotsuku to attend to the Chinese prisoners being released and to make a detailed list of the remaining captives.

Fearing that sinister agents might find their way into the bandit lair to influence the outlaws, Mr. Cheng Shih-chi, the Deputy Tuchun, has issued an order prohibiting persons other than those appointed by the authorities from proceeding to Paotsuku. A special official mission has been organised for the purpose of sending relief supplies to the brigand strongholds and even the medical supplies prepared by the Red Cross have to be dispatched through it.

The International Military Commission appointed by the Diplomatic Corps to investigate and report on the situation here has completed its inspection and is leaving for Peking this evening. The Commission, the Chinese officials state, is satisfied with the manner in which the troops are encircling Paotsuku. The foreign military officers have expressed their opinion that the isolated position of the bandits at Paotsuku is largely responsible for their change of attitude.

The authorities declare that if they had been given a free hand in dealing with the desperadoes at the outset, the diplomats in Peking and the foreign community at large would have been relieved of their anxiety long time ago. They assert that the foreigners with their inadequate and sometimes false knowledge of the psychology of the Chinese bandits did much by way of "swelling the heads" of the highwaymen.

Peking, June 5.—The prospect for the liberation of the remaining captives at Paotsuku is bright and the seeming suspense in the situation is simply due to the inevitable delay in connection with the enrolment of the bandits, according to latest official despatches reaching the Government from the officials at Tsaochwang.

The enlistment, the officials estimate, will be completed in a few days, when between five and six thousands of outlaws will rejoin the rank and file simultaneously as the victims are liberated from their captivity.

The officials characterise the rumors with regard to the removal of the prisoners to the top of the hill as absurd. They assert that when the bandits saw the aeroplanes hovering over them they must have realised that Paotsuku was not at all impregnable and inaccessible. The troops encircling the bandit zone, they declare, are keeping a sharp look-out for the desperadoes who see no better way than coming to terms with the authorities.

Tuchun Tien Chung-yu has again wired to the Government demanding that funds be remitted forthwith to him for the rehabilitation of the situation. Tuchun Tien declares that the negotiations for the release of the prisoners might fail at the eleventh hour, if the authorities should fail to fulfil their promise to pay the bandits a certain sum of money agreed to by both sides at the conferences. He suggests that if the Government is too poor to pay, he be permitted to appropriate the revenue collected by the Lintsang Customs Administration for this purpose.

NEW REPARATIONS NOTE TO BE GIVEN TO ALLIES TODAY

Amount To Be Left To Commission Of International Experts

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, June 5.—The new reparations Note has finally been drafted and will probably be handed to the Allies on Thursday.

The Chancellor, Herr Cuno, yesterday received the party leaders and informed them of the main features of the Note.

Strict secrecy is maintained in regard to the text but it is safe to say that it does not mention any definite sum, which is left to the decision of a committee of international experts on which Germany would be represented.

The financial proposals, based on annual payments and the offer of guarantees, will be more detailed than previously.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, June 5.—M. Seyda, the new Polish Minister of Foreign Affairs, has telegraphed to M. Poincare declaring that he will continue to work in close collaboration, both politically and economically, with France. M. Poincare replied in the same sense.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, June 5.—The Premier conferred today at Brussels with the members of the Belgian Government. It is believed that the meeting will be of short duration. It is the logical result of the preceding conversations and its special object will be to consider the studies made by Belgian experts to facilitate a settlement of the problem of reparations.

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, June 6.—According to an unconfirmed but very definite summary in the Boersen Courier, the forthcoming German note demand a moratorium until the end of 1927, but offers until then to make deliveries in kind to the value of Gold Marks 2,500,000,000. Germany will begin in 1928 to pay Gold Marks 1,500,000,000 annually for 35 years. The railway revenues will be eliminated from the Budget, and bonds to the value of Gold Marks 10,000,000,000 will be handed to an international board as trustee. A monopoly of tobacco and spirits will be created.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, June 5.—The Temps states that a certain optimism is being shown in British Government circles with regard to an eventual solution of the problem of reparations, to which is attached that of Inter-Allied debts.

Paris, June 5.—It is reported that the German note will be handed to the Allies tomorrow.

OPIUM COMMITTEE NAMED TO FRAME WORKABLE PLAN

American Delegation, in Note, Explains Position

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, June 5.—The Opium Commission today appointed a special committee, consisting of M. Leon Bourgeois, Sir J. S. Campbell, Sir Malcolm Delevingne, M. Van Wettum and Mr Stephen Porter, to find a conciliative formula with regard to the American proposals, in which connection the delegates of Britain, India and Germany proposed reservations in respect of production and export of opium.

The American Delegation submitted a note saying that they did not desire to indicate the particular measures that the country should adopt to repress opium traffic, but to admit that domestic usages in a particular State were legitimate and conformed with the Convention would be a dangerous initiative and might lead to demands for international recognition of undesirable practices.

It seemed quite useless to base any judgment on the legitimacy of raw opium production on account of its being employed according to the usages established in India. The reservation would destroy the scope of the American proposals, and the American delegates hoped the nations making the reservations would reverse their decisions so as to enable the establishment of a common strategy for the suppression of the common scourge of nations.

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, June 6.—The Opium Commission of the League of Nations has now unanimously adopted the motion by Sir Malcolm Delevingne. As amended Article 1 now recommends the acceptance of the proposals made by the United States "recognising that they express the general principles whereby the Governments will be guided in dealing with the question of the abuse of harmful drugs and upon which the International Opium Convention of 1921 was based, note being taken of the reservations made by France, Germany, Britain, Japan, the Netherlands, Portugal and Siam to the effect that the use of manufactured opium and the production, export and import of raw opium for the purpose of manufacture will be legitimate as far as the use of the drug accords with the provisions of Chapter 2 of the Opium Convention."

The Indian Government delegate presented a reservation that the use of raw opium conforming to the established usage in India and its production for this purpose should not be illegal under the term of the Convention.

ties. Thus the Wolff Agency is spreading the false report that three German railwaymen, living on the outskirts of Treves and having asked for work at that place, would have been sent against their will to Essen and when they refused to go there, were expelled from the occupied territory. The truth, on the contrary, is that the railwaymen in question had asked to be employed in the Ruhr Basin to get out of the way of reprisals by the nationalist associations in their district and have by no means been expelled.

A meeting of Independent Socialists at Duesseldorf has unanimously decided, on the report of the Saxon Minister of the Interior, to expel from the party the President of the Province of Duesseldorf, Herr Gruetsner, who is accused of having sent inaccurate reports to Berlin on the occupation of the Ruhr and of having organised at Duesseldorf meetings solely composed of Nationalists.

six armored cars, was evidently well trained and efficient for immediate action. It should be a very valuable unit in the conditions under which it would be employed. During its practice firing on the ranges, stoppages were too frequent. They appeared to be due to bad belt-filling. Attention should be specially directed to clearing stoppages quickly when the gun is firing from the cupola, as the cramped space makes this particularly difficult.

The Maritime Company and the Italian Company are both armed with machine guns on hand drawn carriages. They seemed to be well trained and constitute valuable units.

Artillery.—The Field Artillery battery is a good efficient unit. It is armed with 4.5-in. howitzers drawn by 6-pony teams, the driving of which has improved. I saw the battery move by rail to Woosung, where, by kind permission of the Chinese Military Governor of Shanghai, it carried out a practice shoot over the sea, the only range obtainable. The practice, which was by indirect laying with two O. P's connected by telephone, showed that the unit had been carefully trained, and that all ranks had devoted a great deal of time to learning their duties. The shooting was good, but the picking up of the range was rather slow.

ADVICE ON BARRICADES

Engineers.—The Engineer Company has naturally very little opportunity for carrying out its training under practical conditions. The sandbag barricade which I saw made was unnecessarily thick, and its loop-holes were not well designed. The unit should be trained in erecting makeshift obstacles, as the ready-made "knife-rest" obstacle is rather heavy, and only a small length can be held in store. I recommend keeping the barbed wire in rolls of not more than 20-25-lbs. weight, and that some "Concertina" barbed wire obstacles be kept made up in store. These will take up but little space and should be very useful in street fighting. What is bullet-proof in various materials should be taught to all ranks.

Boots.—In all units it was noted that many men were wearing boots which would soon become unserviceable with hard work. As boots are not part of the issued uniform, it is suggested that marks should be allotted in certain competitions for serviceable boots.

6.—Headquarters.—These are very well housed and equipped, being now practically completed Measures have been taken to render them more secure against a sudden raid. The development of the facilities, which the gymnasium, lecture hall and club afford, should do much to ensure the comradeship and efficiency of the force.

7.—Mobilisation Scheme.—The Corps is essentially one for service in what is a large and congested area. To safeguard life and property in that area would undoubtedly tax its present numbers severely, and with increasing responsibilities its numbers should also increase, and include a large proportion of the community. I would again lay stress on training to meet conditions as they exist. It is very important that the training should be practical and that the Commander should hold a fair reserve in hand to meet exigencies. I again repeat that good intelligence, rapid concentration of the force at the threatened point, and quick action are the main essentials.

8.—Since my last inspection Colonel Marr-Johnson, C.M.G., D.S.O., who worked successfully to develop the Corps, has completed his tour of duty and has been succeeded by Colonel W. F. L. Gordon, C.M.G., D.S.O. The permanent staff at Headquarters have carried out their duties efficiently and well.

9.—I am of opinion that the contemplated construction of a parade ground and buildings on the ground near the rifle-range is very desirable. A site for a training camp would also be an advantage.

10.—Conclusion.—From what I have seen at my inspection I consider that the Corps is in an efficient condition. The fact that Shanghai has an efficient Volunteer Corps goes far to ensure that disturbances will not arise, and that if they should do so, they will be quickly suppressed.

PUBLIC SCHOOL AMATEURS GIVE 'JULIUS CAESAR'

Excellent Performance To Be Repeated Saturday Evening

The Shanghai Public School Amateur Dramatic Club presented "Julius Caesar" to a good sized audience at the Lyceum Theater yesterday afternoon, thereby aiding the funds of the Door of Hope mission.

A big cast participated in the production, some 46 students and former students appearing. The play was admirably done, the parts of Caesar, by C. Marshall; Antony, by J. H. Levis; Brutus, by J. Jacob; Calpurnia, by W. Mahon; Portia, by B. Joseph and Cassius, by P. Chalchek being especially well portrayed.

The producers, Messrs. H. L. Whitcher and M. Moosa received many congratulations on the success of the effort as did also Mrs. Tyrer, who had charge of the costuming; Mr. C. Marshall, properties, and Mr. J. Pringle, musical director. The play is to be repeated Saturday evening, the proceeds of the performance on that occasion to go to the London Hospital fund.

Baldwin Sorry, But Sees No Way Around U.S. Prohibition Law

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 5.—In the House of Commons today, replying to Lt.-Col. Howard-Bury, Conservative Member for Bilston, with regard to the American prohibition regulations, Mr. Stanley Baldwin the Prime Minister, said that the British Government did not contend that a ship entering the territorial waters of a country was not subject to the jurisdiction of that country, but, as a matter of international comity, such jurisdiction was not generally exercised except to restrain acts likely to lead to disturbance of public order. No possible disturbance of public order in the United States nor any injury to other United States interests could arise from the existence of sealed liquor in ships in United States territorial waters.

The Government, Mr. Baldwin said, had consequently suggested to the United States Government that the proposed regulations might be discussed with other maritime Powers before they were enforced, but he understood that the United States saw no way to comply with the suggestion.

Peking Cabinet Resigns, Finance Woes Main Cause

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 6.—The Cabinet, after an extraordinary meeting this afternoon, resigned en bloc. At the same time the Cabinet issued a circular telegram throughout the country stating that it had resigned because the President had refused to sign Mandates appointing a few local officials, thereby interfering with the responsible Cabinet system.

The opinion is expressed in many circles that the financial difficulty is really one of the main reasons of the resignation.

Metal Trade In Shanghai Slow

Buyers are holding off for lower levels. The merchants from the Shaoshing district are not showing any inclination to augment supplies.

Lead is lifeless. The London price, after having dropped to £24.10, reached, touched £26.10 per ton and is now rated at £25.75. The quotation in Shanghai is nominal at Tls. 10.50 per picul Local stocks in the hands of merchants and dealers are estimated at approximately 1,000 tons. Hankow supplies of the metal are small. Cargo on old contracts has all been delivered just now. From Tls. 11.50 the price has been coming down steadily, while the London rate has dropped from £26 per ton c.i.f. Shanghai.

Large quantities of pig iron have been going from China to Japan. The Japanese market is showing signs of decline. The steel market in Japan is still continuing to soften, registering fractional and desultory but significant declines under the withering influences of the growing visible supply. The Japanese Government Steel Works, which have been anxiously watched because of their rumored intention to reduce prices, add much to the uneasiness of the market at Tokio and Osaka by reductions between 10 percent to 15 percent. Large quantities of Czecho-Slovakian steel have been arriving in Japan recently and these are being felt acutely by the market there. Belgian iron has declined from yen 150 to yen 116, and there is a very uneasy feeling pervading the whole section.

The latest London quotations are: Copper £66.17.6 per ton, for standard spot and £67.10. for three months, electrolytic copper £73 for spot and £73.10 for three months, tin £197.2.6 for prompt and £197.7.6. for future, lead £27.15 prompt and £25.2.6 future, spelter £21.5 prompt and £20.15 future, and quicksilver £10.7.6 per bottle.

Cornell University To Take Up Extension Program At Nanking

Trustees Take Official Action In New York

Cornell University has decided to carry on extension work in China in connection with the University of Nanking. This matter was officially acted upon at a recent meeting of the Cornell trustees held in New York City.

There has been a Cornell-in-China Club for some time among the students of the University. This action of the trustees makes it an official part of the work of the University. The object of Cornell is "to promote the mutual friendly relations of China and America, in particular of Chinese and American students in Cornell, and to establish and foster a Cornell educational enterprise in China."

President Farrand has expressed his hearty interest and approval of the whole plan. He is a member of the American Committee for the China Famine Fund, and is naturally very much interested in agricultural extension work and forestry which have aims for the control of famine conditions in China.

Membership in the Cornell-in-China Club is composed of American and Chinese students, graduates, and members of the faculty. The Club now has a membership of ninety-two. The secretary-treasurer of the Club is H. A. Moran, formerly of the Y. M.C.A. in Hankow.

Parleys Held Up By Bandits' Demands

ing the money was finally paid and the relatives who came for their kin received four corpses.

The most brutal act of all occurred in a village in the near vicinity. The bandits were opposed by the men of the village in a fight and one of the bandits was killed. In revenge, the bandits raided the village the next day when the men were all in the fields working, slaughtered all the women and children, and hung the heads up in the homes for the men to find when they returned. The bodies were all thrown in the village well.

Solomon also writes that several of the chiefs came to the Temple in the Clouds and raised a verbal row with the captives because of the presence of foreign officers—the Allied Military Commission—in the vicinity, the airplanes overhead, and because of recent troop movements. They informed us if such things continued some or all of us would again be sent to the top of Paotzuku.

MILITARY MISSION

The troop movements were occasioned by the inspection trips of the International Military Mission which will leave for Peking this afternoon on a special train after spending three days here inspecting the Chinese troops and the cordon around Paotzuku. The mission spent two days on horseback in the field, making their headquarters with the Twentieth and Sixth brigade headquarters. From those two points yesterday and the day before they visited the 'front' over a wide sector, talked with the men and officers, studied the military tactics being employed and made an inspection of the arms and ammunition. Their reports are being prepared today but will not be given out for publication here. If the reports are made public at all it will very probably be through the Legations in Peking.

The only apparent effect the visit of the high military officials seems to have had was bad for the captives. The bandits didn't like the idea of foreign officers being on the ground at all and although they made no move against them and caused no disturbance, they took it out on the captives with new threats. The flights of the airplanes sent down from Peking have had somewhat the same effect and as far as can be learned have accomplished no real good. The only possible use they could be put to would be to secure information. They are not suitable for combing or other military work.

Six clerks are still in the bandit camp checking the bandits and carrying on the enrollment and General Chen, the governmet delegate, will return to the chief's headquarters today.

Austria Rapidly Becoming Normal

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, June 5.—The Austrian Chancellor, Dr Seipel, in a statement published in the Temps, emphasises that the Austrian Government does not intend to sell or to lease the federal railways, but simply to commercialise them in order to obtain higher returns.

Referring to the financial situation, he pointed out that the issue of a long-term loan would mark a decisive stage in the stabilisation of finances. It is clear, Dr. Seipel said, that the political and economic situation in Austria is gradually becoming normal again and there is no doubt today of the stability of the country.

Papyrus, Donoghue Up, Wins The English Derby

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 6.—The following is the result of the Derby:—

Papyrus	1
Pharos	2
Parth	3

(Special To The China Press)

London, June 6—Papyrus, ridden by Donoghue, England's leading jockey, won the Derby.

A few hours previous to the race Papyrus ruled a favorite with the bettors, but soon gave way to Town Guard. The latter had been fancied by the public for several days previous to the race, but the odds on his chances were hammered down persistently following reports that he had been injured in training, until he finally was second choice. Just before post time, however, his backers, convinced that reports of his injuries were untrue, wagered fortunes on his chances, with the result that he went to the post a slight favorite over Papyrus.

The track was heavy, due to a morning rain, but the enthusiasm of the crowd was undiminished.

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 6.—At the final call-over for the Derby, Town Guard regained his position as favorite. He was heavily backed, and the betting closed in London with his price standing at 11 to 2.

There was rain in the early hours of this morning.

9 to 1 Legality.
100 to 8 My Lord
100 to 8 Knockando.

The latest betting in London at 9.30 p.m. was as follows:—

13 to 2 Papyrus.
7 to 1 Pharos.
15 to 2 Town Guard.
17 to 2 Legality.
19 to 2 Ellangowan.
100 to 8 My Lord.
100 to 7 Knockando.
25 to 1 Saltash.

SHANGHAI BESTS MITSUBISHI IN BASEBALL GAME

Kingman's Crew Gets Six Counters, But Are Made To Hustle

The Shanghai baseball team defeated the Mitsubishi team of the Japanese city league in a well played game at the race track yesterday, the score at the finish being 6 to 1 in favor of Captain Kingman's men. The contest was closer, however, than the score indicates, as it was not until the final innings that the winners added the four runs which gave them a lopsided victory. The Japanese were first to score pushing one over in the third. Kingman's men came right back in their half with the tying run, and in the fourth they added another.

The Japanese team showed greatly improved fielding ability over their last appearance, and kept their opponents hustling throughout. In the seventh the Hudford Taylor, who was playing in left, slammed out a home run which seemed to take the heart out of the Japanese temporarily, for in the next inning their defense weakened, with the result that three more runs were scored against them.

Maloney, pitching for the "Gallopers," had plenty of speed and the remainder are at present use to three hits. He whiffed nine of them, the same number of his own teammates falling before the hooks of Tsutzumi.

'A' Company's Bisley Meeting

The Annual Bisley Meeting of "A" Company British S.V.C. took place Sunday, when about 60 percent of the Company competed. Shooting conditions were not quite of the best, owing to heat haze and gusty fish tail wind. The weather however, was a pleasant change and largely contributed to an enjoyable day's sport. The Company was honored by the presence of Colonel W. F. Gordon C.M.G., D.S.O. Corps Commandant and Major Pilcher who visited the Range during the firing and were also guests at tiffin.

A further distinction was accorded by the fact that Mr. Sydney Barton C.M.G., H.B.M. Consul General, Honorary Member of the Company exercised his privilege of competing for the Mihholoong Cup, and together with Captain Monk fired through the other competitions of the day and remained to tiffin.

In the prize list, the permanent trophies were awarded to the highest scorers, irrespective of class, who were thus debarred from winning any other prize in the same competition. The first prizes were open to all competitors with class allowances, and 2nd and 3rd prizes to "A" and "B" classes, also shooting together on allowances. Separate 2nd, 3rd and 4th prizes were awarded to "C" class shooting alone on monthly cup conditions.

Centenary Of Rugger Observed

Rugby, June 5.—One hundred years ago, the "Rugby" game of football was evolved during the course of a game at Rugby School, which has just erected a tablet to commemorate the event. The inscription reads:

"This stone commemorates the exploit of William Webb Ellis, who with a fine disregard for the rules of football, as played in his time, first took the ball in his arms and ran with it, thus originating the distinctive feature of the Rugby game. A. D. 1823."

JOCKEY SET DOWN

London, May 12.—A. M. Beary, one of the most successful jockeys of the season, was suspended by the stewards at Kempton Park yesterday on a charge of foul riding on Gollyeyes in the Fullwell Plate.

The complaint was lodged by Lane whose mount, Ironsore, was killed.

Beary accomplished the feat trick at Chester on Wednesday, winning the first three races including the Chester Cup.

Big Shipping Co. Loses $1,270,000

(Reuter's Service)

New York, June 5.—The annual statement of the International Mercantile Marine shows a deficit on last year's working of $1,270,000, after allowing for depreciation and the payment of bond interest.

The President attributes this falling-off to the effect of the immigration laws, among other factors, and also to the competition of the United States Government-owned steamers, which had resulted in unprofitable freight rates. The depressed conditions since January 1 led to the recommendation to pass the dividend on preferred shares.

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 6.—Six steamers, the Stathis, Triolos, Ambaticlos, Neephalonia, Milan and Panagis, of 17,000 tons net and 42,000 tons deadweight capacity, built in Hongkong in 1920, have been sold on the Baltic Exchange for £211,000. The prices are regarded as good considering the state of freight markets. All the vessels have been bought by British interests.

Moore Memorial Church Planning For Busy Summer

A delightful tea was held yesterday afternoon for the Workers of the Moore Memorial Church, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Anderson, 4 Thibet Road. Among those taking part on the program was General Nyen Shih-seng; Tsen Yih-san, editor of the English weekly, D. L. Sze, Pastor, and one member of the church choir. The ideal of this Church is "Every Member Serving." It has at present more than one hundred men and women doing regular forms of service, practically one hundred of whom are volunteer workers.

In addition to the regular forms of worship, the church is conducting a number of additional forms of service, which make it a very busy center throughout the whole week. Among the features which have been active during the winter may be mentioned the following: An Afternoon Service School for Workmen, particularly adapted to servants; an Afternoon School for Women, which is reaching some 75 women and girls; an Evening School for men, which has enrolled 271 members, and which meets 6 nights each week; a Bible School of about 75 men, meeting every Wednesday night; a Boys Christian Citizenship Group of 100 boys; a Day School nearby, in addition to the McTyeire Primary School on the premises.

As a Summer program the following features will be conducted:

(1)—Three Daily Vacation Bible Schools, which will attempt to reach in particular the children not being reached by the regular schools.

(2)—A Singing School which will meet three nights each week. It will have a qualified teacher, and will be particularly adapted to Church members.

Chinese American Bank Has Closed Its Branch At Manil a

The Manila branch of the Chinese-American Bank closed its doors to business at noon on May 28. The branch will be permanently closed, according to Mr. V. H. Petrie, branch Manager. All loan accounts have been settled and ample deposits made to protect all creditors. Mr. Petrie said. The International Banking Corporation will take care of all outstanding accounts and hereafter act as agent for the Chinese-American Bank in Manila.

According to Mr. Petrie, the closing of the Manila branch has been in contemplation for a long time. The bank was first established as a branch of the American Foreign Banking Corporation and later taken over by the Chinese-American Bank of Commerce. The Head Office and all of the eight remaining branches of the latter are in China, and it was thought best as a matter of policy to restrict the company's business to China, rather than remaining in the foreign field.

In rewly to a statement given Senate President Quezon, in which he intimated that it appeared illogical for one bank to argue that conditions were not conductive to profitable operation, when other bonks in the same category were remaining in business in Manila. Manager V. H. Petrie, of the Chinese-American Bank of Commerce, which liquidated by turning over its accounts to the Manila branch of the International Banking Corporation made the following statement, in which he offers to furnish the authorities "the facts which, considered from a practical business viewpoint, are looked upon as being unduly restrictive on the employment of foreign banking capital in the philippine Islands."

"My statement was either based on premises of fact, satisfactory and conclusive to ourselves at least, or else it was published in a spirit of mischief. I think that my friend Mr. Quezon, has known me long enough—nearly twenty years, in fact—to acquit me of any mischievous intentions.

"Considered superficially, Mr. Quezon may argue that if the laws relating to foreign banks are discouraging to one bang they must be discouraying to all, leading to the withdrawal of all of them from this field. I do not care to play the role of spokesman for my colleagues in this connection. The investment of capital in any community is simply a matter of business judgment. One man might establish a factory in a place one carry on for many years in the face of odds which would lead some one else to prefer to open a similar factory in another community where those odds do not exist.

"However, I do not believe that any useful purpose will be accomplished by confining myself to generalities of this character. The authorities either do or do not want to encourage the capital that is already here. If they are really interested I shall be pleased before I leave, to present to them facts which considered from a practical business view-point are looked upon as being unduly restrictive on the employment of foreign banking capital in the Philippine Islands."

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

June 6, 1923

Spot bar silver was up ¼d and forward unchanged in London yesterday. The New York price declined to 65¼ cents and the London-New York cross rate improved to 462¾. At the opening our official rates were unchanged from yesterday but two changes were made in the course of the morning.

The official Sterling rate at the close being 3-1½, the Gold Dollar rate 72¼ and the other rates on the same basis. In view of the changes in our official rates during today's short session, our market was somewhat erratic throughout the day but on the whole firm, with speculators selling, although it showed signs of easing off just at the times the Official rates were changed.

The lowest rates at which business in Sterling was done were 3-1-7-16 for June delivery, 3-1-5-16 for July and 3-1¼ for August. The lowest rates for Gold Dollars were 72¼ for June and 72⅛ for forward. The highest rates for Sterling were 3-1⅝ for June delivery, 3-1½ for July and 3-1-7-16 for August. The highest rate for Gold Dollars was 72⅝ for near and forward deliveries and for Yen 67¾.

At the close there were buyers rather than sellers at these rates. Banks were quoting 3-2⅛, 74¼ and 1140 for Sterling, Gold Dollar and Franc bills respectively. China bought silver in London yesterday and the market is reported as steady. New York report their market as easy with little demand.

Canton-Hankow Railway

The Canton-Hankow Railroad, Kwangtung Section, locally known as the Kwantung Yueh-Han Railroad, is now operationg as at normal times, says the Canton Daily News. For this early return to regular traffic, much credit should be given to Chen Hing-han, now managing director of the line.

The through train service to Shiukwan was not resumed until May 13, when but a few hundred dollars were collected. Since then, the daily receipts have been about $2,000 on May 15 to $8,000 on May 18. A receipt of $10,000 daily would not be too much under the present conditions. The length of the road is but 140 miles, however.

When Mr. Chen took charge of the line a month ago, he practically found a deserted compound, he having discovered within reach but four locomotives and less than 30 freight cars and among the damaged or lost 60 or 70 passenger coaches and freight cars. Now the line has repaired or recovered nearly all the losses and has in possession more than 20 locomotives and 100 coaches and cars.

When Mr. Chen assumed charge of the line, he also found the outgoing manager had absconded with some $600,000 and Mr. Chen had to be personally responsible for a loan of $100,000 before he could make the operation of the line again effective. So far the former managing director has failed to render an account of his administration. It is understood that some $10,000 or more of the railroad funds are now deposited with the International Bank at Shameen, and proceedings are being taken to preserve the fund from going to the hands of the outgoing managing director.

Mr. Chen says that he will try his best to cut out all the irregularities alleged to have existed in the company for a long time. Many shippers in the past were unable to reserve a car for their goods without paying from $20 to $40 so-called black-money to the station masters.

HAVE YOU RHEUMATISM IN ANY OF ITS FORMS?

If So, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Are What You Need

All forms of rheumatic trouble are due to the same cause, a debilitated poisoned state of the blood. This explains why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the renowned Blood and Nerve Tonic, have cured more cases of rheumatism and its kindred ailments than of any other form of disease excepting anaemia.

RHEUMATISM CURED IN ENGLAND

Mr. Ernest Ramsden, of 6 Bradley Place, Morley, Yorkshire, states:—"Just before last Christmas I began to have acute pains in my legs and shoulders. The doctor said it was acute rheumatism. For six weeks I suffered agony. Then I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In less than a week I was feeling brighter and stronger. Soon my cure was complete. The praise for this alone must be given to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

LUMBAGO CURED IN SOUTH AFRICA

Mr. T. R. MacDonald, of Klompsburg, Transvaal, reports: "Lumbago confined me to bed for months, suffering day and night. One day my wife received a letter advising her to treat me with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I started a course and was completely cured."

SCIATICA CURED IN NEW ZEALAND

Mr. Walter Mullis, of 3 Beach st., Petone, near Wellington, says:—"What I went through after Sciatica attacked my right leg is almost past belief. My leg shrank and agonizing pains shot down my calf. Once I had to have sleeping draughts administered or I would have gone out of my mind. Doctors treated me, but in spite of their efforts I suffered until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills cured me. I have never had a relapse."

If you have rheumatism, or any other form of trouble due to impure weak blood or disordered nerves, begin your cure today with Dr. Williams' Ping Pills. Obtainable from medicine vendors everywhere, or post free, $1.50 per bottle, $8 for 6 bottles, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

The Warning To China

WITH all the good will in the world towards China, there is perceptible among the Great Powers a lessening of sympathy and a growing anxiety over what is to be done in China to put matters right. Incident is piled upon incident and the necessity for a radical change of policy, and the introduction of a firmer hand, is gradually being driven home.

The rights of foreigners in China must be protected and it is manifestly impossible for China in her present disorganised and helpless state to afford this protection. Further, there seems small likelihood of any single foreign power being willing to shoulder the burden. Why then do not the Powers appoint a qualified commission to come to China, make a quick but complete survey of the situation and follow this with a report recommending whatever course may be decided upon as the best to follow?

Aside from the general political collapse of which we are now witness, there is a widespread outbreak of organised lawlessness, and this is not confined to the large armies of bandits. Incidents growing out of the boycott against Japanese goods are becoming more frequent and more violent. They constitute an important and serious menace, for it is not to be believed that the Japanese will fail to counter when the time seems ripe. They too have treaty rights for which they are entitled to demand respect and they have forces near at hand which are fully powerful enough to command this respect when it is not forthcoming otherwise. Unless the leaders in China immediately bury their private war hatchets and unite to restore order and peace and protection in China, some sensational foreign troop movements may be expected before mid-summer.

Protect The Future Of Your Family

BY J. J. MUNDY

Have you made a will?

If not, you should attend to the matter at once.

Do not be foolish and procrastinate about it, so that you cannot bring yourself to the point of making such a document.

It cannot hasten the time of your passing.

You may be hale and hearty, and if allowed to die a natural death by an all-wise Providence, years may elapse before you are on, but on the other hand you may not be so fortunate.

As protection to your family you should have a formal will made out to forestall all attempts of those who might try to get possession of your property and take it from those you desire to have it.

You may have a lot of confidence in your relatives and in those who would have the handling of your estate should you die suddenly.

Others have not that same confidence, but their families have suffered because there was no legal document to direct the division of property.

It is your duty to your family to make it easier to protect themselves.

Correspondence

MISDIRECTED ACCUSATION

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS.

Sir:—With reference to the letter written by Mr. Hugh W. White and that by Mr. Gordius Nielsen dated June 5, which were published in some of the local papers on the 5th and 6th instant, respectively, I beg you to insert this note in your paper.

Chinese "officials" and self-seekers are indeed extremely clever in spreading rumors in order to divert public opinion from the chaotic state of affairs prevailing throughout China.

Japan, who has considerable trade interests in China, desires peace and not banditry. It is absurd and ridiculous, therefore, that some unthinking foreigners can base their opinions on mere rumors of this nature, instead of using their own intelligence. Even the most elementary student of Chinese affairs is fully conversant with the subterfuge adopted by those Chinese who are plundering their fellowmen.

The Japanese are not responsible in any way for the Linchong outrage or the failure of the Chinese to show their disgust by holding a mass meeting.

The mass meeting was apparently not supported by the proper public bodies, because it is not the Japanese militarists that the Chinese have to fear—as Mr. White suggests——but it is in reality the undignified spectacle they present to the world by showing that they are incapable of managing their own affairs. I want to advise Messrs. White and Nielsen, simply for the sake of their reputations, that they should make proper investigations before wasting their time and efforts writing to the press and trying to besmirch the name of Japan without the slightest information on which to build their correspondence. At the present time, banditry is rife in many parts of China, besides Lincheng, so also is piracy and it is not considered safe to travel or reside far from the treaty ports.

Why not blame Japan for all the outrages that have been committed throughout China during recent years? Let Messrs. White and Nielsen understand that Japan has too often been used as a "stalking-horse" for the misdeeds and maladministration of peculating officials in this country.

I presume Mr. White is a missionary and therefore believes in justice and fairplay. Is he acting fairly by causing the publication of such unfounded and damaging rumors? On what authority have these people such audacity as to accuse Japan of being connected with the Lincheng outrage? It must be remembered that their actions bring no credit to the nation to which they may claim allegiance.

Thanking you for inserting this letter in the correspondence columns of your paper, I am,

ANZO.

Shanghai, June 6, 1923.

URGES RADICAL ACTION

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS.

Dear Sir:—The following short and easy way of freeing foreigners from the nuisance of bandit interference, is respectfully submitted:

Wherever a foreigner is held up by bandits, let the provincial chief be executed without the option of a fine. Then let the League of Nations take over complete control of the whole Province, occupying it with colored troops under Californian and Australian officers. That would stop the whole thing in one act, and at the same time give relief to the populace at large.

In the present mess, one of the first things to do is to take off the head of the infamous Chang King-yao. He is already the cause of the death of at least one American, and is very closely identified with the bandits now in the limelight.

Further, has this interesting fact received the attention that it seems to deserve: The mob of outlaws who captured and held the foreigners in Honan, not so long ago, are now "regular soldiers," and are stationed (above all places) at the very foot of Kuling! That should make the situation quite interesting to those whose families go to Kuling for the summer.

Should not some pressure be brought to bear to have these undesirables removed, before something happens? I am, Yours etc.

HUGH KALYPTUS.

Parents Often Stifle Genius -:- Says Gene Stratton-Porter

Gene Stratton-Porter, who today starts a striking series of heart-and-home articles, is one of America's favorite and most widely read wamen writers. She has won eminence as an author by many books which have attained enormous circulation.

More than five millions of her novels, including such well-known works as "Freckles" and "The Girl of the Limberlost," have been taken by the American public. Her first article follows.

In my progress through this world with what I am pleased to hope is a fairly keen eye for the affairs of nature and of human nature, one of the things that has wrung my heart inexpressibly is the talent coming under my immediate observation which has been lost to the world through the stupidity and the mercenary hearts of parents.

Everyone believes in the genius of a world-renowned list of painters, poets, sculptors, authors, and inventors; but many fail to grasp the concrete idea that these bright and shining lights who have performed scientific miracles, who have filled the world with household comforts, who have brightened it with beauty, inspired it with poetry and entranced it with music, all came into the world as little children; the great and over whelming majority children in homes that knew nothing of wealth or position, many of them in homes of the very poor.

People easily grasp the vision of the great achievements, but they forget the small and humble beginnings. They do not seem to realise that it is quite as possible that the youngster evincing a tendency to make things with his hands, to experiment with water and steam, to draw, to paint, to chisel, or to make music, in his own home, given the proper encouragement and appreciation, might become equally as great as any genius—might even eclipse any work that has been done previously.

GENIUS NOT DECLINING

There is no foundation upon which to base any theory that genius is either declining or exhausted. It may be that we are not fair judges of our own work, that it will take the verdict of posterity to stamp some of the achievements of today as masterpieces in any line; but the prospect that this will come to pass is quite as great today as it ever has been.

The only way in which this can happen is for the children who are born into the world with strong predilections in any direction to be fostered, to be developed along the lines in which they are interested, with self-sacrifice on the part of their parents, with deliberate intention, with religious care.

There have been observant persons who have figured that a great national cataclysm was productive of a race of especially endowed genius. Any outstanding period of national stress, during which the minds of the people have been unduly inflamed, have thought deeply, and have aspired to great heights, have suffered severely, has produced strains of genius apparent in children born during that period.

Several such waves have swept over this country, a strongly and particularly marked one during and following the Civil War. The war just past, the cruelest known in history, that cut the most deeply into the hearts of people, inflaming their imaginations to the uttermost, should be productive of the greatest wave of genius that has ever swept the world.

Now is the time to begin to watch the children born during and at the immediate close of this period.

Now is the time to study the little people, to try to select the poets, painters, musicians, writers, scientists and inventors of the coming generation.

MOST HAVE ONE BENT

Now is the time to study your children as parents never have studied children before in the history of the world to seize upon any tendency which exhibits or presages the inclination to give utilities, culture, beauty and music to the world in the future.

There have been many times in my life when I could have wrung my hands and wept over the stupidity and the mercenary spirit which prevented parents from developing the genius which they knew existed in their children; but because they were either too selfish or they had not the faith to believe that their own flesh and blood could produce an artist of marked ability.

There are very few children born into this world who do not come with a predilection in favor of some one certain thing. Once, my sister Florence, in discussing genius in a letter to me, wrote the following paragraph, which seems to me to be the best exposition of the subject I ever have read:

"Of course the distinction is a fine one, but as I understand it, genius is born in one. A genius is a person born with remarkable aptitude with natural endowment embodying the possession of high mental powers and faculties. Talent is more the will to do a thing, combined with mental capacity, eminent ability, skill and cleverness."

Granting that this be the case, then genius is sufficiently apparent, even in very small children, that father and mothers, watching with the eye of love and discernment, should be able to detect the earmarks.

It has been my painful experience to have had under my immediate observation the loss to the world of a very great cartoonist, a boy of amazing talent, hounded from his home, thrown upon the world, his life lost in an accident which could not have occurred to him had he been kept at home, his ability recognised, his education worked out in the direction of the development of a God-given endowment.

I knew one girl whose parents could have accomplished her musical education, to lose to the world the mellowest contralto voice I ever heard. I could continue for a sickening number of instances.

If parents want to develop genius properly, they must take it during the impersonal years from birth to adolescence.

It must be captured and started in the groove in which it is to run, while the minds of children are occupied with the beauty of the world, its mystery and its wonders.

After the urge of sex is upon them and the necessity for equipping themselves to earn money with which to meet life faces them, youthful predilections are forgotten or pushed aside; demands of immediate import are upon them, there is no time to wait for opportunity to develop genius that would advance them along the lines they are best endowed by birth ta follow.

There are times when genius is lost to the world for a period of ten or fifteen years, during which the demands of life and nature absorb its possessor, and then it flames up again and comes at last to noteworthy culmination. The genius of this world that reaches the perfect flower of fruition is the genius that is recognised in childhood, and that is deliberately, intentionally and lovingly fostered.

I can point out no concrete example that will better illustrate what I mean in this direction than that of Hilda Conklin, a little girl not yet ten years of age, the daughter of a woman who is a professor of literature in Smith College.

POETRY BY CHILD

When the mother of this child discovered the spark of genius that set the child searching for words with which to materialise the dreams that were in her small brain she encouraged the other channels; the born actor, either boy or girl, deliberately weaned from art, stunted in development, by parents of narrow religious views who feel that an actor is one of the damned, that inborn genius must be frustrated in order to return the soul possessing it to the God who gave it, without fruition.

Certainly I do not know what God is going to say to people responsible for such a condition.

The wonder things of the world, the things that make life worth living, are the things that the development of an especially endowed genius produces. So I would most earnestly plead with parents to watch their children carefully, and at any personal sacrifice, no matter how great, to give them sympathetic encouragement, to help them develop along any lines for which they seem to be suited by birth.

It is the easiest thing to detect in children what it is that they are especially endowed to do.

One child will sit, stodgy and silent, absorbed in a sand pile, while another with flying feet and hands is whirling along the sands, dancing to the rhythm of the sunbeams, laughing with the wind.

It would not take me long to decide which child needed encouragement and help in the line of musical and physical expression.

The world is so wonderfully equipped with public schools and institutions of all kinds that no very great sacrifice, as a general rule, is demanded from parents in educating their children to a degree sufficient to enable them to continue by themselves.

I plead with the fathers and mothers of the present day to watch their children for any least spark of genius, even a latent spark, to give children every help and encouragement, no matter if it does involve personal sacrifice or extra labor.

What does it matter if you do work overtime or if you even sacrifice yourself if you give, through your children, spirtual food to a starving world in the shape of great poems, great pictures and great songs?

Birds As Weather Prophets

There is nothing unreasonable in the supposition that many of the lower animals have intimations of what nature is doing, or is about to do, that escape our perception.

Ten days ago, before I could see the slightest indication of a let-up in the freezing grasp that apparently returning Winter had laid upon the face of the earth, and while the last fall of snow was yet glittering defiantly, with its coldly wicked, unreceding crust pressed against the tender bark of small two or three-year-old trees like an assassin's razor, two sparrows came dropping out of the shivery air to reconnoitre their old nesting spot on a window ledge of the second story of our house.

They inquired around, looked into the possibilities of the dead grass market: sat on the sill in apparent consultation; chattered to one another; madame hunched up her feather ruff and was almost blown tail over head as a sharp breeze from the northward hurled round the corner—but nothing dismayed them or seemed to have the slightest effect toward inducing them to change their minds. It was time to think of the new house, and they had some news from head-quarters, unknown to us humans, which assured them that they could go ahead with their plans and clear the ground.

There had been many times in the latter course of the Winter when I had said to myself: "Old Hyems is dying. In a few days he will be under the grass." But I ought to have been wiser, for the sparrows, although they had been seen occasionally all through the Winter, flitting about the stripped shrubbery, or sheltering in the thick rhododendrons, and looking for crumbs when the sun shone, never paid the least attention to the home site on the window ledge. They knew, by means unattainable to us, that the time was not yet come.

I doubt if there is an official weather man who in his heart despises the hints of the birds. Without any knowledge of "highs" and "lows," and "isobars' and "hyperbars," they can beat any forecaster not only in detail but in gross, short cast and long cast.

It may be objected that birds sometimes perish in blizzards, and are carried out far over the ocean and lost for lack of foreseeing the strength and direction of winds, or the on-coming of sudden tempests, and I would not deny any of these statements.

But the birds have a sixth sense of some kind that seems to be delightfully reliable, and indeed, in this matter, why shouldn't they take the lead? Is not the atmosphere their especial realm and the scene of nearly all their activities, and have not our meteorologists found out more about the laws of the weather and the seasons since we began to navigate and explore the aerial ocean than their predecessors had learned in thousands of preceding years? Meeting them on their own ground, with all our advantages, no doubt we shall some time beat the birds in guessing the weather—but we don't often do it now.

Einstein Scores A Point

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

The result of the photographic observations of the total eclipse of the sun, taken by the Lick Observatory expedition to Australia on September 21 last, is favorable to the Einstein theory of relativity. This announcement by Director Campbell will probably induce many who have hitherto remained doubtful to give at least a partial assent to Einstein's revolutionary theory.

What is this theory, which is said at the same time to upset the old bases of science and to have no noticeable results in everyday life; and how can it be either proved or disproved by photographing an eclipse of the sun?

In one sentence, the theory assumes that the entire universe is made up of space and time combined into a single "continuum," to which the name "space-time" is given. In this continuum time may be said to play the part of a fourth dimension added to the familiar three dimensions of space alone, viz. length, breadth and height. Thus instead of being entirely independent of space (or of matter) as Newton assumed, time is an essential co-partner with space. Time and space combined make the universe, as oxygen and hydrogen combined make water, which does not resemble either of them but cannot exist except as a product of their combination.

Neither you nor the world you live in could exist if either time or space ceased to be. Time is as necessary as space to any existence whatever. Neither is more "real" than the other.

Now to these old philosophical ideas Einstein has given new life and significance by submitting them to mathematical analysis. The result that specially interests us here is the conclusion that space-time has not the same geometrical structure that we ascribe to space considered by itself. Space-time possesses what may be called inherent curvature, and this curvature increases in the neighborhood of large masses of matter. As a consequence, bodies moving in space-time move in curves, and the curvature is greater the nearer they approach to huge masses, such as the sun.

Light itself is affected by the curved structure of space-time, so that when a ray of light from a distant star passes close by the edge of the Sun it is bent from its course, inward toward the sun, so that the astronomer on the earth, following back the direction of the ray as it reaches him, sees the star farther from the sun than it would have appeared if the light-ray had not been bent.

Supposing light to be affected by gravitation, even on Newton's theory there would be a similar bending of starlight passing the sun, but the deflection would be only half as great as Einstein's theory requires it to be, and as the results obtained at the eclipse prove that it really is. These results confirm those obtained at the eclipse of 1919.

Such observations can only be made during a total eclipse because stars near the sun are not visible except when the sun is hidden behind the moon which thus screens off the glare.

The Purpose Of Education

BY THE SPECTATOR

Some time ago a college president expressed himself as follows:

"The highest purpose and privilege of the university and the college is to do what it can by the best means at its disposal to turn out citizens capable of sound reasoning and thinking."

Although this sentence is somewhat overloaded with words, it expresses the right idea, which is that it is the business of education primarily to teach them to think rather than to give them information.

Giving information is more or less of a fraud. Most books of information are made simply by taking the facts out of one book and putting them in another.

The idea of licensing a teacher simply because he knows a great deal and possesses the knowledge of many facts is not sound.

It does not make so much difference how much a teacher knows. It makes all the difference in the world whether he has the peculiar faculty of arousing in his pupils the desire to know.

The older I get the less I burden myself with information. I know where to get it and that is enough. Why should I load my mind down with tons of statistics when I know right where to find them in the library?

It is much more important to know how to handle facts than it is to have the facts. For facts, generally speaking, are pretty well stored away, classified and indexed. And it is better to know how to use the index and table of contents of a book than it is to know all the things in the book.

Although this is supposed to be an intellectual age, we are not yet fully alive to the importance of thinking.

We do not, for instance, realize that one trained and vigorous brain is worth a thousand trained hands.

We have an idea that such and such a corporation doing a billion dollars worth of business rests for its prosperity entirely upon the hand workers, when as a matter of fact the real basis of its success is the thinker at the top.

Few will deny the most important thing about a human being is the little pint or so of gray matter in the skull. But it is also true of any business concern or of any nation that the most indispensable element in it is that element that thinks clearly and soundly.

So it makes little difference how much information your boy has gathered at school provided he has learned to think.

And if he knows all sorts of things, can name all the kings of England backward and can speak Polish fluently, and does not know how to think, he is but sounding brass and tinkling cymbal.

Thinking is hard and desperate work and most people hate it. But it is tremendously important and the business of the school is to find out that portion of the child population that is capable of it and train them to do it and to like it.

Something To Think About

BY BRUNO LESSING

The other day the writer had an opportunity to watch Mr. George B. Christian, Jr., at work. This gentleman is the private secretary of the President of the United States. A more trying position to fill satisfactorily—without ending in a lunatic asylum—it would be difficult to imagine.

Its occupant comes in contact every day with representatives of potentates, with politicians and statesmen, with reformers who have a mission, with business men who have schemes, with cranks of all kinds and, above all, with idle visitors who merely want the honor of a few moments' chat with the President.

Very few of them ever reach the President. No man could speak to a thousand visitors a day and accomplish any work. But the private secretary must see to it that each visitor departs contented. No matter how eager he was to see the President, he must go away without a feeling of intense disappointment. He must feel that the President is just as disappointed as he is.

And that requires SOME tact. A private secretary's tact, under such circumstances, is his stock in trade. If Mr. Christian had his way he would turn all visitors over to the President. It would be so much easier. But if you could have seen him at work and heard him explain over and over again just how unfortunate the situation was, how thoroughly he appreciated this particular visitor's motives and how gladly he would help him, if it were possible, you would have had an object lesson in tact.

What, after all, is tact? Among the definitions in the dictionary you find this: "Ready power of appreciating and doing what is required by circumstances." Analyse it for yourself, however, and you find that it rests more upon consideration for the feelings of others.

The tactful man is courteous. He is discreet He has sympathy for the feelings of others, or, at least, a clear knowledge of those feelings. He is a consoling person to deal with because he does not rub you the wrong way.

Rugged honesty and truthfulness are splendid qualities, but, if they are not accompanied by tact, they can do great damage. The person who tells you that you are looking mighty sick or terribly homely, may be truthful, but he is not tactful.

Tact helps wonderfully to smooth the rough road of life. It is valuable in business, in politics, and, above all, in social relations. It is a trait worth cultivating. It makes friends and it gives happiness.

George Christian might do worse than open a school to teach it.

WORK ON PACIFIC INFORMATION IS OUTLINED BY FORD

Pan-Pacific Director Urges Establishment Of Bureau For Intelligence

A representative gathering of Shanghai shipping company, hotel and tourist agency managers were present at a tiffin-meeting called under the auspices of the Pan-Pacific Association yesterday at the Union Club when Mr. Alexander Hume Ford, director of the Pan-Pacific Union of Honolulu, addressed them on the need of the establishment of an information bureau here.

Mr. H. Middleton, chairman of the tourist bureau committee of the association, presided and was supported by Mr. Yang Tcheng, president of the association and Mr. George A. Fitch, secretary.

Others present at the meeting were Mr. A. H. Tessier, general agent of the C. P. O. S.; Mr. Jacques Klass, manager of the Astor House Hotel; Mr. H. V. McKoen, acting agent of Thomas Cook and Son; Mr. E. J. Hudson, passenger agent of the T. K. K.; Mr. Robert S. Cauvin of the American Express; M. M. Yamasaki sub-manager of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha and Mr. S. C. Chu of the Shanghai Commercial and Saving Bank.

After giving a review of the movement for the establishment of a tourist or information bureau in Shanghai, Mr. Middleton asked Mr Ford to address the gathering.

The text of Mr. Ford's speech was as follows:

"For years to come the staff of the Pan-Pacific Union will be engaged in the work of following up the resolutions passed at the Pan-Pacific Commercial Conference last year, and urging each country of the Pacific to put them into active effect. One of the most important resolutions passed at this conference, so far as China is interested, was one urging the establishment of Pan-Pacific Information Bureaux in the cities about the greatest of oceans and the theater of the future commerce of the world.

"In Peking a bureau is being established, and for several years the Pan-Pacific Association of Shanghai has sought to have such a bureau in this city with branch establishments throughout China.

It might be stated that the San Francisco plan is to have the ground floor of the New Chamber of Commerce building as the home of a Pan-Pacific Information Bureau, in which every commercial or travel representative from a Pacific land located in San Francisco will have his desk, and where either through Cook's or the American Express the intending Pacific visitor might get travel transportation to any point of destination. In the basement would be located the Pan-Pacific Commercial Museum and a hall where would be shown hourly motion films of life and commerce in Pacific lands.

"Throughout the Pacific arrangements have already been made for existing Information Bureaux to act as parts of the Pan-Pacific Information Bureaux, and to give out free of charge the books and information that officially reaches them. It will be a cooperative work, each helping the other.

"In Hawaii L. de Vis Norton, who has lived and worked along these lines on both sides of the Pacific, is representing the work in Honolulu, with an office in the lobby of the Alexander Young Hotel.

"Where would the money come from to pay for all this? The answer lies in government and commercial appropriations and in reasonable rent charges made for space within the building. Enormous sums are spent every year by foreign governments in presenting all their tourists and business attractions to the world. It has always remained in my memory that at the height of the war the French government, hampered as it was for funds, floated an enormous sum for the establishment of offices in London and New York for the encouragement of tourist travel to France when the war should have come to to an end. The Swiss government for many years has maintained its entire standing army from the profits of its tourist business. The commonwealth of Australia and the dominion of New Zealand both spend an enormous sum of money in encouraging tourist business and particularly immigration. The government tourist bureau in Melbourne issues a very large variety of beautiful illustrated booklets covering every kind of industry and every commercial opportunity in the entire commonwealth, and all these governments and many others maintain separate and enormously expensive offices in the great cities of the world with the inevitable result that there is much duplication of effort and unnecessary outlay of money. They should all be coordinated into one mutually cooperative Pan-Pacific intelligence bureau.

"Could all this effort be centered in one great building in each great Pacific country and could all the work be done in a spirit of cooperation, rather than that of rivalry, gigantic savings could be effected. I think that it is feasible to suggest that the application of only a part of these savings towards the expenses of a Pan-Pacific building would go a long way toward providing it with an adequate income.

"There would be many other sources of revenue, such as funds derived from exhibition rentals, convention fees, etc. I believe that such a project as this could be put over with entire success.

"This I think outlines the proposition. It will take time to put it into complete action, but if existing information groups in each Pacific city will cooperate it can be put over. The Pan-Pacific Association of Shanghai can well undertake to swing China into line and establish the local machinery for making China's resources of every kind better known to the world, and in educating the Chinese themselves to establish better means of communication at home, that they may know and understand each other better than they do at present—then the whole world will wish to know more of China and to visit her."

A discussion then followed the address, the representatives promising to give the matter their favorable consideration.

CONSUL CASANOVA GIVES DINNER FOR NOTED VISITOR

General Sir Gomes da Costa Is Entertained

Consul-General Alfredo Casanova of Portugal last night tendered a dinner in honor of General Sir Gomes da Costa, Portuguese war hero who is at present visiting here. A number of prominent members of the local Portuguese community were present at the banquet.

This evening the General will be entertained at dinner at the S.V.C. club by the members of the Portuguese Company of the Volunteers.

It is announced that the garden party to be given in honor of General da Costa by the Portuguese community will take place at the Nanyang Brothers Garden, at the corner of Hart and Sinza Roads next Sunday from 4 to 6:30 p.m.

Three special reserved cars will leave Rifle Range at 3:15 p.m., 3:30 p.m., and 3:45 p.m. to convey passengers and will stop at all stoppage stations to pick them up. Another special car will leave Lay Road at 3:30 p.m., with the same purpose.

The garden may be reached by the passengers alighting at the end of Avenue Road—turning to the right, and going down Hart Road till the corner of Sinza and Hart Roads is reached. The gate of the garden on Avenue Road, though open, is not available as the inner gate to the garden is closed.

Members of the different Portuguese Associations and their families—(adults)—as well as the members of the Portuguese community and their families—(adults)—are cordially invited to attend the garden party. Return trips of the cars will be at 6 and 6:30 p.m.

DEL MONTE NOW IS ENLISTING NEW ALL-STAR BALLET

Those efficient directors of things terpsichorean—R. H. Hamilton and Yan Damaradsky—have scored another triumph at the Del Monte Cafe this week with a ballet termed "The Bacchanal," a colorful effort, most attractively costumed and gracefully executed.

The number employs the entire ballet strength of the Russian company at present appearing at the Del Monte and is led by Balletmaster Damaradsky and Balletmistress Mme. Damaradsky, while the cafe orchestra handles the difficult score very pleasingly. In addition to the ballet features Mr. Frank Shaw, who has been in hospital for some weeks, is entertainingly back on the job and there are a number of other good solo items as well.

The Del Monte management announces an elaborate change of program to begin July 1, when a batch of new artists will be seen here in the biggest ballet shows thus far attempted. Manager Al Israel has his agent rounding up the talent in the North at present and gives his word that the new series of productions will be the "best ever." A company of fourteen dancers, all hailed as stars, is being brought together for the undertaking and the directors are going in strongly as well on the costuming and setting end of the program.

CHANG CHIEN IS HERE TO ATTEND TWO MEETINGS

Mr. Chang Chien, the Nantungchow magnate, accompanied by his son, Chang Chien, Jr., arrived in Shanghai yesterday and is now staying at the Nantung Building, Kiukiang Road. He comes here to attend the meetings of the Woosung Bureau of Commercial Development and of the Ta Sung Cotton Mill, while his son will book his passage for America.
